TAKE OVER WORK OF COMMISSION

Grant of $17,000 to Columbiana County Approved by State

Mrs. Stella Walton and Mrs. James Hill of Salem were recommended as relief investigators here at a meeting last night of the city relief commission, composed of Safety Director John R. Kerr and the four ward councilmen.

The recommendations will be filed with the county relief commission and then with the state commission. However, the recommendations are tantamount to appointment.

The appointees will take over the duties now carried by Kerr and Councilmen C. F. Zimmerman, L. R. Cobb, Paul J. Dean and Joseph Calladine, and each is to be paid at a rate to be determined by the commission, probably between $60 and $75 monthly, councilmen said.

Served Without Pay
The present commission has given a large amount of time and effort to the investigation of relief cases in the district through last winter and up to the present time and has served without pay or expenses. In this work the commission has used records of the Red Cross chapter.

Some time ago the state approved the appointment of investigators and last night's action is the result locally.

The investigators will establish offices in a room of the Red Cross suite in the Memorial building but will have no other connection with the chapter save the use of its records.

Relief regulations provide no funds for office rent. As a result it

Lindberghs Halted By Bad Weather

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, July 13.—Unfavorable flying weather, along the Newfoundland coast prevented Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh from leaving here for Cartwright, Labrador, today on their aerial mapping expedition.

It was cold, wet, and foggy when the colonel arose and he said he would not take off until the weather cleared.

The famous flying couple had looked forward to meeting the Italian air fleet at Cartwright, but General Italo Balbo led his 24 seaplanes southward from that port today for Shediac, N. B.

The Lindberghs arrived here yesterday evening after a flight of 5 1/2 hours from Halifax.

White Is Pleased

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., July 13.—Governor White is "pleased," he said today, with the state supreme court's decision yesterday thwarting referendum on Ohio's repeal convention law and on bills to transfer the motor vehicles bureau from the office of the secretary of state to that of the state highway director and to establish a highway police patrol.

"I consider both of the bills relating to the highway department constructive legislation," he commented.

that the Mosier law authorizing the vote and convention, is not subject to referendum, as claimed by the Anti-Saloon League.

Will Continue Fight
Immediately, however, the league laid plans for continuing the fight and its state superintendent, S. P. McNaught, announced the Ohio prohibition emergency committee would meet Monday to consider an appeal to the nation's highest tribunal.

Plans for another referendum at Columbus, O., were also being considered when the supreme court refused to sustain a popular vote on bills establishing a road patrol and transferring the motor vehicles bureau from the secretary of state's office to the highway department.

This decision was a victory for Governor White in a lively battle with Secretary of State Myers who

White Is Given BROAD POWERS

Sweeping Authority Conferred On Governor
In Recovery Act

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., July 13.—The Carney bill conferring upon Governor White the same wide powers as held by President Roosevelt under provisions of the national recovery act will become operative in three months.

The chief executive signed the bill late yesterday and announced he would not hesitate to employ the sweeping authority it gives him to enforce codes of fair competition and regulate interstate business in cooperation with the federal government.

"It shall be my purpose," said the governor, "to follow the spirit and intent of the law and cooperate with the national administration in the endeavor to bring industry and agriculture back to a normal basis."

Observing that in matters wholly intrastate in nature, "drastic powers are conferred upon the governor to prescribe codes of fair competition in industry and marketing agreements as affecting agriculture products." The executive added, "I shall not hesitate to exercise the powers, if the need arises."

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 13.—Stocks swirled upward in an enormous volume of trading today.

By the beginning of the last market hour leading issues were showing gains of $1 to around $5, with a few up more extensively. Several alcohol issues rallied spectacularly at the top of the market, but later utilities came forward with a rush. Rails were quiet.

Grains moved rather narrowly, while cotton eased under profit-taking. Silver advanced to new highs since 1930.

At 2 o'clock on the stock exchange floor American Telephone was selling around $134, up more than $4; U. S. Steel just over $66, up $1.50; Consolidated Gas $63, up $2 United Aircraft $42.35, up $4; Commercial Solvents, $41, up $5; and Santa Fe $7 up $2.

Industrial Alcohol lost a third of a $6 jump. American Power and light, Electric Power and Light and American and Foreign power gained $1 to 2.

Hunt 'Smart Money' In Guardian Probe

CLEVELAND, O., July 13.—A hunt for "smart money" withdrawn from the Guardian Trust Co. in the year preceding its close last March was started today on order of the state senate committee investigating the institution's failure.

While the committee itself is in adjournment until next Tuesday, a group of accountants will inspect the bank's books to determine if any depositors withdrew money through receipt of "inside" information regarding the bank's condition. Such withdrawn money has been termed "smart money."

The accountants were asked to determine who withdrew large sums of money in the months preceding the closing and whether the withdrawals coincided with receipt by the bank of loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corp. and the Federal Reserve bank.

The committee, at its session yesterday, received a copy of a letter sent to the guardian last November by State Superintendent of Banking Ira J. Fulton warning guardian officials to "correct unsatisfactory conditions."

Another group of accountants will prepare for the senate committee a report on the guardian's administration of trust accounts.

Beer Distributors Fight New Cap Tax

COLUMBUS, O., July 13.—Beer distributors are marshaling strength and influence to be brought to bear on Governor White seeking a veto of the 2-cents-a-bottle cap tax on beer.

Meeting here, they formed the Ohio Beer Distributors' association, elected W. B. Harn, of Akron, president; E. E. Sznitz of Columbus, vice-president; William Lewis of Youngstown, secretary-treasurer, and arranged for a conference with the governor.

Additional opposition to the cap tax was expressed by Congressman Arthur P. Lammek in a letter to Governor White.

"That tax should prove a source of taxation, but to increase the tax from $6 to the present tax per barrel—to $12.90 on bottled beer would defeat the very purpose of the president and congress in modifying the law."

A month ago a 4 per cent increase was put in effect.

The plant, with 218 employed, is now working at capacity during the day and has a night shift of about 25 working on an eight hour schedule.

TELLS OF ABUSE BY CAPTORS

Condition Is Serious;
Denies that Ransom
Was Paid

CHICAGO, July 13.—Threatened with death by kidnapers who held him prisoner for 12 days, John Factor, the market speculator, was back home with his family today, but was in a serious condition, suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Released just before midnight last night in suburban La Grange, the usual debonaire Factor, who is reputed to have made "big money" in the markets, told a story of mistreatment by his captors, but denied, as did members of his family, that any ransom had been paid.

Report Ransom Paid
There were reports, however, that anywhere from $75,000 to $200,000 had been paid to effect his release.

Captain Dan Gilbert of the state's attorney's office, frankly said he believed that a large ransom was paid, and Traffic Policeman Eugene Cortis of La Grange, said that Factor himself had admitted that there had been a payment, but did not disclose the exact amount. Later Factor denied any payment had been made.

Unshaven and ill-appearing in other respects, the man who was wanted by the British government for an alleged $7,000,000 swindle in England, approached Policeman Cortis and Policeman Clifford of River Forest, at the main business intersection in La Grange and announced:

"I'm John Factor."

Says He Was Threatened
He was taken to the police station and later was brought to his Chicago hotel, where he told authorities that his abductors had demanded $500,000 ransom and had threatened him with machine guns and a pair of scissors, when he told them he couldn't raise the money.

When they demanded that he get the money from rich friends he said he told them that he "wouldn't put them on the spot."

A farm house northwest of Chicago, overrun with cock-roaches, was believed by Factor to have been his place of imprisonment, but he was not certain because during the entire period of his captivity he was blindfolded with tape, which was not removed until a few minutes before his release.

Factor was returned to Chicago in a police squad car with his wife and son, Jerome, 19, himself a victim of kidnapers a

A WARNING TO ALL

Governor Ruby Laffoon and the Kentucky legislature have been warned in no uncertain terms by the federal administration that unless that state appropriates funds for relief no assistance will be forthcoming from Washington.In a telegram to Governor Laffoon, Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, suggested the immediate calling of a special session of the legislature to provide "substantial funds so that Kentucky will pay a reasonable share of the cost of caring for its own destitute."Kentucky was the first state to receive a "shock" from Washington in connection with this issue because that state to date has done nothing about the problem of assuming its proper share of the burden.But what is true of Kentucky at this time might be true of any other state at some not too distant date.
Social workers have agreed that the relief problem will be present long after the depression is gone and forgotten because of the vast number of people affected by the slowing up of the nation's industrial life. All states must lay their plans to take care of this problem.The reasonableness of the federal position, of course, cannot be questioned. There is nothing in the recovery plans of Mr. Roosevelt that suggests a willingness on the part of the federal government to assume the full burden in any relief problem. It is a community proposition. The failure of any state to assume its just share will indicate a complete breakdown of state government.

PRAISE FROM ABROAD

Foreign approval of President Roosevelt's domestic policies continues to grow in volume as the disjointed revelations forced by the world economic conference take cohesive form.Certain outstanding foreign statesmen, chiefly Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Brittain, and Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada, have expressed strong support for the President's plans since the inception of the "new deal." Developments at the London conference, plus other trade results from the American program, have brought new expressions of approval from abroad.Sir Josiah Stamp, outstanding British economist and financier, is the latest recruit to the ranks of the Roosevelt supporters. Speaking from London, Sir Josiah said: "I am one of those who think that the President's policy is to a large extent indeed right, because all regular expedients have failed."After expressing admiration for the procedure followed by Mr.
Roosevelt in developing his far-reaching recovery program, Sir Josiah went on to say: "President Roosevelt has forged and put into his tool bag a number of remarkable instruments, and to my mind he and his advisers are hoping feverently that the existence of these tools and the occasional rattling of the bag to show they are there will do all that is necessary to start the upward trend of trade."Such expressions of approbation for his program must be as reassuring to Mr. Roosevelt as they are to the people of this nation. Any country embarked upon an admittedly nationalistic program must expect foreign criticism and it is refreshing to see certain outstanding figures abroad overcome their own inherent patriotism and praise the efforts of another country to overcome an exceedingly difficult problem.There is reason to suspect that the Anti-Saloon league has lost its rabbit's foot.—Chicago News.A movement against hitch-hikers has been started, but exceptions should be made in the case of dry workers making their way from state to state.—Indianapolis News.

What Others Say

UNCLE SAM WILL NOT FAIL

A test of the efficiency of the Department of Justice, highest unit of law enforcement of the nation, will follow the order issued recently for the arrest of the elusive bandit and killer, "Pretty Boy" Floyd.Floyd, wanted in Ohio for the slaying of a Bowling Green policeman, has too long defied state law enforcement machines. He has been hunted in nearly every city in the state and has been reported seen in half a hundred American cities, yet has not been captured.This desperado has little respect for law. He is accused of robbing banks, seizing property at will, and has been identified by photo in several slayings.Uncle Sam has earned the reputation for getting his man. The Department of Justice is repeatedly the finest man-hunting machine in the world. The capture of Floyd will prove to criminals that in the last analysis they cannot escape.Department of Justice operatives in the recent bootlegging era earned for themselves through their integrity the name "untouchables." They couldn't be bought nor would they betray their sworn duty to enforce the law. Every so often stories are heard in Washington about Department of Justice men following their quarry for years to clear up a minor offense. They never quit.Floyd will find that he is now dealing with an altogether different type of officer since J. Edgar Hoover, director of the United States Bureau of Investigation, has ordered the Department of Justice to bring him in.—Toledo Times.

DANGEROUS ILLNESS
FLYING NEWS
MONEY

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)UNLESS certain that you have provided for everything, old age included, keep going. It is very hard to be sure, and dangerous to stop. In New York Dr. E. M. Weil thought he had enough, retired, found at the age of 60 that he must work again, and tried to rebuild his abandoned practice. The attempt failed, and yesterday a friend found Dr. Weil and his little dog both dead. The doctor knew the dog could not make a living and gave it strychnine before taking the poison himself.The moral is, keep on working.
Idleness is dull and it is dangerous.
Since the bottom can drop out of anything.THE FLYING news is all good news. General Balbo, with his air squadron of 24 seaplanes, flying in military air formation, landed yesterday at Cartwright, Labrador, after the longest single hop on the way to Chicago, 1,500 miles. Chicago is preparing a fine reception for that great fleet of the air when it lands on Lake Michigan.Jimmie Mattern, who survived in freezing Siberia in spite of severe burns and a broken ankle, promises soon to resume and finish the first trip ever made around the world through the air alone.Colonel Lindbergh and his wife in their leisurely ramble mapping a northern route to Europe, flew yesterday from Halifax, Nova Scotia, waving goodbye and saying they were "northward bound, for no particular place."Colonel Lindbergh strolls through the air 10,000 feet up as you would stroll around your garden.SOME believe it is a mistake to let anybody make a great deal of money. They may prove to be right 10,000 years hence. But at present it is sometimes useful to let considerable money accumulate in one pocket.For instance, the beauty of the magnificent Palisades, along the Hudson river, was threatened by enterprising gentlemen that wanted to knock down the huge cliffs to crush and sell the stone.Suddenly, their knocking down stopped. Now it is shown that John D. Rockefeller Jr., through various corporations, bought the whole length of the Palisades, starting below the George Washington bridge and extending 13 miles north. Yesterday he gave the 13-mile strip of land, worth about $5,000,000, to the state. He couldn't have done this unless he had the $5,000,000. The fact that he had it means that the Palisades will be preserved.UNDER the rule of the sultan and his pashas in Turkey, citizens were careful to hide their wealth and look poor. What the pashas saw they took. Americans know how these Turks felt. Whatever government, national, state or local, sees, it takes, in part.New York needs money, and proposes through the board of aldermen to tax hairdressers, hat check ladies, soda-water salesmen, motion picture machine operators, candy makers, and "cosmetologists" work in beauty parlors.Thus far, nobody has suggested taking the baby's rattle, but that may come.JOHN J. O'CONNELL JR., the young man of Albany, N. Y., was expected to be released by kidnapers momentarily. The ransom demand was $250,000.Racketeers that, according to Senator Copeland, plan to specialize in kidnapping when prohibition's repeal ends bootlegging profits, will learn from statistics that kidnapping is not a safe profession.In 18 kidnapping cases, 43 have been put in jail, nearly all for life; three were killed; 10 await trial.In addition, the United States government proposes a kidnapping law to cover the whole country.
That would interfere seriously with kidnaping enterprises in which local officials sometimes co-operate, as in a recent case when a policeman arrested the kidnaped man and turned him over to the professional kidnapers. If the government's secret service takes kidnap-ing as seriously as it does counterfeiting it will be bad for kidnapers.Tells How She Lost

DayThere is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflammation of swollen toe joints and help get them down to normal and that is to apply Moore's Emerald Oil night and first class drug store for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Em-to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated prepa-

which will continue until the veins

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York CityCare For Child's Defects
During Vacation

Dr. Copeland

During the school year many children are kept at home because of minor physical ailments. The ailment may be mild and only last a few days, but as a rule, it recurs.
When the number of days absent from school is totaled, it is found to be surprisingly high.Such defects as decayed teeth,
poor vision, enlarged tonsils, enlarged glands,
ear trouble,
glandular disorders and other disturbances lead to poor attendance at school. The child's progress in his work is retarded and his health is always below par. The parent hesitates to take time to correct these disorders and too often postpones the needed medical attention until the summer vacation.Correct Minor Defects If this plan were followed it would be a good one, but I am sorry to say that the good intentions are often forgotten. This is particularly true if the child has no complaint during his summer vacation.
You may be assured that most children will ignore minor complaints during the summer months when happy play beckons them.I cannot overemphasize the importance of taking your child to a physician during the summer months. This is the ideal time for that important and valuable periodic health examination.Minor defects that have bothered the child during the school year should be attended to now. This will assure your child of a 100 per cent attendance at school next year. His health and school work will be influenced by this care.It is a mistake not to have discussed tonsils and adenoids removed during the summer months. This is especially important if the child has been backward in his school work and particularly if he has suffered from repeated attacks of tonsilitis. Do not be misled by his apparent good health during the summer months. If the tonsils are diseased the child is very likely to have repeated attacks during the coming winter.My advice is to consult with your doctor if the tonsils are diseased and he advises their removal, have this done before school opens. In this way you will prepare your child for a healthful and uninterrrupted school year.For younger children, summer is the ideal time for vaccination against the smallpox. In many states children who have not been vaccinated cannot enter school. Inoculations against diphtheria should also be given during the summer months before the child enters school and is exposed to the germs of this dreaded disease.Answers to Health Queries

New York

Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The clump of clay feet—from Morgan to Walker—still reverberates. Never in a single fiscal year have so many New York idols toppled off pedestals. Because the metropolis is an island of intense hero worship there are many lonely places against the sky. Tick them off!There is no place in the world where the magic of popularity is so easily seized or hastily snatched.
And no human figure is quite so pathetic as the de-popularized celebrity. He finds the people who cheered enjoy a sadistic glee in looking at the other way.Napoleon at St. Helena expressed the New York spirit with: "A hero should die at the peak of his fame." At breakfast we counted 13 New Yorkers who rode the tide full crest a year ago, but today are ed-ded into a bleak isolation. Many headline names are now jets.I have it reliably a man whose name created awe a few months back looked upon his muddled carreer several weeks ago and murmured: "Try as I may, I cannot think of a single person I can honestly call friend." He rocks at a window, opening and shutting the blade of a knife.It's heresy, I suppose, but it often struck me—also Chas. M. Schwab, I hear—the happiest folk are those who clutch at game and mays. They spend the rest of their lives on the side-line, prattling self-glorification, a continuous vaudeville of evasion.
But always happy.Early today, while shadows were peeling away to dawn, I dressed because of a wakefulness and went for a walk. On a deserted corner was a man who exuded the vatted aroma of cheap rye. He had been "playing a piano at a racket," and as proof tapped a music roll under his arm. He had written many popular songs, he said, but publishers stole them. He would be richer than Irving Berlin today had he not been robbed. He fairly bubbled incriminations. Yet he was happier in martyrdom than most men with success.My thwarted friend was also a soft shoe dancer in other days—Eddie Leonard many of their tricks. Or so he voiced his jubilant romance.
He was anxious to teach me one step. But the morning was too young for caper. The point is:
What successful person has exuberance to teach a total stranger a pas seul at 5 in the morning? Only a failure expresses such joyous abandon.Thingumabobs: William Rock, the dancer, began his career as a song boy with Ward and Vokes shows. George Creel is an after-midnight writer, too. Jer-

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMELAnd You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to GoIf you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels.
Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul.
Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's

CHAPTER 28

Mallory darted a quick, hunted look around the room. Martin could almost feel the rapidity with which the broker's brain was working, the lightning thought chasing another, desperately stalling for time. Grady waited grimly.

Finally Mallory shrugged his carefully padded shoulders with an air of resignation.

"It was my own money," he said, dropping his eyes to the desk. "In a way, that is, I had a trust fund for my younger son. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars. I figured on this deal to double it and more. You know so much about my affairs. Lieutenant, you'll understand that $150,000 would be useful to me just at present and with your facilities it shouldn't be hard for you to check this up. I can always put the money back for the kid. There's nothing illegal about that, is there?" His eyes met Grady's with a hostile glare.

Legal Enough

"No, I shouldn't call it illegal," Grady had a private and more descriptive term for the type of man who keeps his mistress on the money from his own child's trust fund.

"Was Sigmund Sterne in the pool, too?"

"Yes, he put up five hundred."

"Who else?"

"There were four of us. Van Leyden put up two hundred grand and Brandt promised two hundred. I put up a hundred thousand. Anything else you'd like to know?" The broker's voice contained a vicious note that left Grady quite unmoved.

"Probably," he said rising. "But I'll be seeing you again in an hour or two, Mallory. I can wait." He paused in the outer office to interrogate Mallory's secretary. She confirmed the story of the trust fund and denied all knowledge of the office having received the Brandt securities.

"Fifty grand for the bracelets," commented Grady as he walked into the busy street again with Martin. "And a hundred for the pool. But it's all too pat for my liking. I'm going to shoot over and talk to Van Leyden. Maybe we'll learn something there. Want to come along?"

Seeks Solitude

Martin shook his head. "I want to think over what I've learned already," he answered slowly. "See you later."

Abruptly he turned and made his way home, his mind revolving with half a dozen theories and the new developments in which Mallory and the show girl figured.

He telephoned to the restaurant in his building to send up some dinner and then sat down to think over the ideas that were racing through his brain. As the elusive pattern of the puzzle tormented him with its manifold tangents, the telephone bell shrilled through the quiet apartment.

He rose hastily and answered it. It must be Sheila, he thought.

"Hello," he said into the mouthpiece. "What?" His eyebrows went up in astonishment.

"As important as that?" he asked. "Why—of course. I'll be in the rest of the evening. Yes. That's right."

He hung up slowly.

"Now, I wonder," he murmured to himself, "what she meant."

The clock struck eight.

His dinner untroubled before him, Martin fitted in the information that his visitor had told him with the fantastic theory that he had entertained the past few hours. Over and over again he told himself that it was beyond rhyme or reason to believe it. It couldn't be true. And yet, suppose he accepted it as fact? Then he must accept, too, the inexplicable, inexplicable end to which it pointed. His brain raced like a mill stream.

Burton telephoned, asking Martin out to dinner. Martin mumbled excuse, cursing the interruption. Grady called. A stool pigeon had turned in a tip on the whereabouts of Gats Perino. The lieutenant, firmly elated, was off to round up the missing gunman in person. Martin declined the invitation to be in at the kill.

Martin telephoned down to the switchboard operator.

"If anybody else calls I'm out," he directed.

"Very good, Mr. Ellis."

He threw himself back into his desk chair and plunged anew into the maelstrom of his thoughts.

The cigar butts piled up in the ash tray. The room was dense with smoke. Every nerve in his body quivered and quickened with the tenseness of the strain that he was undergoing.

He seized the telephone book and searched hurriedly among the names. Conviction was one thing. Tangible, conclusive proof was something else again. He called a number.

There was some delay before an answer came from the other end. Even then the information that he sought was slow in coming. At length it came.

"You are quite sure?" Martin's voice was tense.

"Positive."

He hung up. His forehead was scathed as he turned back to his desk. Half an hour passed while he covered a sheet of paper with notes, diagrams, indecipherable symbols. The pieces of the puzzle remained stubbornly irreconcilable. He was sure that the answer lay in his hand, but what good was the answer to him so long as he had no way of working out the sum? Axioms had no place in the code of criminal conviction.

"Cerebral hallucination, maybe," he muttered. He flung himself down on the couch and tried to blot the problem from his brain, revolted at the effort. He repeated poetry with an inattentive mind. He remembered that counting numbers was supposed to relieve the overburdened mind. He gave up at two hundred. There seemed every prospect of his being able to continue to a million without materially diminishing the intellectual pressure.

He rose again and laid some fresh paper on the desk before him and exhumed from a drawer a large pile of newspaper clippings. They were the press stories on the three murders. Martin arranged them in chronological order. He picked up each clipping, read it through carefully and marked notations on the paper, laying out a synopsis as though he were writing a novel.

Summary of Facts

It was past midnight before he laid down his pencil. He gathered up the slips of paper that were covered with his fine, small writing. He sat back in his chair, lit a fresh cigarette and read:

QUESTIONS ARISING ON THE BRANDT MURDER

1. Persons who knew that Brandt was going to the theater on the night of Monday, October 10.

2. Persons who knew where Brandt's house was located.

3. Persons who had seen the play at trout or rehearsal and thereby anticipated the darkness.

4. Persons with opportunity of getting at Brandt's hip flask.

5. Persons who knew of securities in Brandt's safe.

6. Persons with possible means of access to securities.

7. Persons who knew the whereabouts of Brandt's apartment.

8. Persons who had means of knowing Brandt's idiosyncrasies.

9. Persons who knew of existence and location of master-switch in Brandt's library.

10. Persons who might conceivably have known combination of Brandt's safe.

11. Persons who knew or suspected Brandt's determination to make a new will.

12. Persons with motive, direct or indirect, for slaying Julius Brandt.

QUESTIONS ARISING OUT OF THE ADAIRE MURDER

1. Persons who knew locality of Adaire apartment.

2. Persons likely to be received informally by star.

3. Persons with knowledge of star's movements.

4. Persons with motive, direct or indirect, for slaying Bonnie Adaire.

QUESTIONS ARISING OUT OF DEATH OF SAM

1. Persons with access to my apartment.

2. Persons with access to decanter.

3. Persons with motive, direct or indirect, for killing Sam.

4. Persons with motive, direct or indirect, for killing me.

Beneath each heading and after each question Martin had entered the names of every individual who could have been concerned. Likely or unlikely, he had put them all down.

He put another cigarette into his mouth. He was in the act of lighting it when his body suddenly grew rigid. He caught his breath. His arm remained stiffly in the air, as though paralysis had caught him in midstroke. The lighter dropped from his nerveless fingers.

"God almighty!" Martin almost shouted the words. "I've got it! You blind, unutterable fool!"

The house lights were full on in the Olympic Theater.

But there was an atmosphere of gloom in the auditorium, a musty smell, an ominousness, almost, that the bright illumination could not dispel.

The house had been newly cleaned, the seats brushed and dusted. A shrouding slip-cover was placed over C. 2—the murder chair in which Julius Brandt had met his death almost a week before. Like a pallid ghost it stood out, in exaggerated relief, luminous almost, as though an invisible light had been focussed upon it.

The auditorium was empty. And yet, Martin thought, as he looked in from time to time, it seemed peopled with a phantom audience, ghosts of long-forgotten players, whispering that drama was at hand.

Court Suit Is Family Affair

Bits of Odd News from Nation—Thief Tries To Steal Bible

SAN FRANCISCO — Mike Genova's entire family went to his aid in a court contest over a $68.75 claim against his barber shop.

Two daughters, Anna and Mary, high school pupils, drew up a reply to the suit and acted as counsel. Another daughter, Josephine, was interpreter. Mrs. Genova was the star witness.

The court took the case under advisement.

NEW YORK—Eleanor Will, 20, showgirl, took her dog to a police station when it bit a little girl. She had it examined for rabies, of which no trace was found, to prevent the necessity of inoculating the child.

The police thanked her, then served her with an "unmuzzled dog" summons. She was fined $10.

CAMDEN, N. J. — Rev. John S. Hackett, superintendent of a mission which operates the Camden Shelter for Homeless Men, has arranged for an orchestra to furnish music at religious services, and his congregation will be seated at tables instead of the conventional pews or benches.

CHICAGO—A thief attempted to steal the smallest Bible in the world from a miniature church in the Hall of Religion at the World's fair. The thief broke the lock on the church only to find that the Bible had been removed to a vault.

NEW YORK—four to eight hours sleep after study is a greater aid to memory than more study, according to Prof. Edward B. Van Ormer, psychologist of St. Joseph's and Wagner college.

In a bulletin of the American Psychological association he says a process of memory consolidation begins after study which develops best when not beset by the interruptions of waking hours.

Richard Barthelmess In New Film Coming to State Friday

A daring screen record of these hectic times gives Richard Barthelmess the material for his latest production, "Heroes For Sale," coming to the State Friday to play two days.

Harsh, Daring Plot

The story is one that mimes no words in portraying the situation in the career of a "forgotten man." There is no attempt to sugar-coat it—it is a vital recital of the struggle in an era of depression.

The picture opens with the World war in which Barthelmess is severely wounded, leaving him with ailments which form barriers against a normal attempt to rehabilitate himself at home. The entire story of the post war period is seen through the eyes of this veteran. His struggles for the right to live and earn his daily food are grimly depicted.

Success and failure alternate and in one of the lapses in between he finds fleeting romance—as touching as it is short.

Is Star's Fiftieth Film

This is Richard Barthelmess's fiftieth starring vehicle. From the early days of "Broken Blossoms" (still one of the gems of films) to the more recent aviation pictures—"The Dawn Patrol" and "Central Airport," he has acted every variety of role—and as the saying goes, of value.

Richard Barthelmess

"whatever he has touched he has adorned" . . . No star is more popular today just as he was in the silent films—he is the surest bet in movies.

The star is ably supported by Loretta Young, enacting the pathetic and touching role of the wife; Aline McMahon as a true friend; Gordon Westcott and Robert Barratt . . .

"Private Detective 62" is showing this evening at the State theater—it stars William Powell and Margaret Lindsay . . .

In the supporting cast are Ruth Donnelly, Sheila Terry, Arthur Byron and Natalie Moorhead . . .

The plot concerns a love racket in which a private detective deals with the methods used by an unscrupulous detective agency to obtain or manufacture evidence for the divorce courts, at the instigation of jealous husbands and wives . . .

Powell, in the title role, as a discredited secret service operative carries on his distasteful business for want of a better job until he is forced to frame a woman with whom he falls in love . . .

"WET" ISSUES
CLIMB HIGHERDollar Again Drops; Gain
In Bonds; Many Stocks
Show Advances

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 13.—Stocks climbed aboard the "wet" express today with members of the distilling family spurring 5 to 16 points at one time, all other categories joined with gains of 1 to around 5. The rush of buyers swamped the machinery of the stock exchange and the ticker tap was minutes late throughout the greater part of the session.

Dollar Drops

Aside from prospects of repeal, there apparently was little fresh news to motivate the resumption of the upswing. Commodities generally relaxed their enthusiastic advance, although most of them were fairly firm. The dollar dropped a couple of cents to the British currencies. Silver futures edged up pound, but steadied in terms of gold to new highs for the year. Bonds improved.

American Commercial Alcohol was the big mover in stocks. After getting up to a 16-point gain, however, it dropped back moderately under profit taking. Other shares in this division with advances of 3 to 5 included U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Crown Cork and National Distillers. Gains of 2 to 4 were recorded by American Can, United Aircraft, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Goodyear, American Sugar Refining, Great Western Sugar, Case, Western Union, American Telephone, DuPont, International Silver, U. S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and Westinghouse. Numerous stocks were up 1 or more points.

Living Costs Still on

While market followers were watching closely for reports of profiteering in food and other necessities as a result of the recent upswing in commodity prices, much interest was expressed in a statement issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics at Washington to the effect that the cost of living in June, this year, was actually 2.9 per cent below that in December, 1932, and 24.6 per cent under that of the peak level in 1929.

There was also considerable discussion of the administration's program for the inauguration of minimum wage and maximum hours of labor throughout the United States. Some financial quarters fear that if the various "codes" are made too severe in the matter of pay and working schedules, living costs may jump too quickly for public comfort.

Federal Jurist Is Given Verbal Rap
In Common Pleas

TOLEDO, O., July 13.—A Toledo common pleas court judge leveled a sharp criticism at a federal judge.

Judge James Martin expressed his views at the preliminary hearing on the application of the state banking department to settle for $47,000 worth of collateral and $3,000 in cash the $103,000 indebtedness of Federal Judge John M. Killits to the Ohio Savings & Trust Co.

Judge Killits is assured of a salary of $10,000 a year for the rest of his life and Judge Martin referred to that fact when he said that he once had owed a bank money when it closed and had paid every cent of it. At the time, he said, he wasn't sure he'd be able to keep his job.

Richard D. Logan, attorney for Judge Killits, called attention to the judge's feeble health and said the creditors probably would gain more by the compromise settlement than by waiting for full payment.

Judge Martin postponed the hearing until Aug. 8 because Judge Killits now is in Canada.

Approve Relief Grants

COLUMBUS, O., July 13.—Grants totaling $1,661,575 for relief work in the various sub-divisions of the state, and representing payments for the last half of July, were approved by the state relief commission yesterday. The funds represent both federal and state revenues.

In addition to the regular grants, the commission authorized Orange county to divert $12,000 from gas taxes for relief.

To straighten out a tangle in Montgomery county relief finances, the commission authorized the county commissioners to use $31,520 of their own funds to pay bills and repay the city of Dayton $3,000 and granted the county $95,075 outright, to be used as a rotary fund and thus place the relief work on a cash basis.

Other grants approved were: Butler county, $30,700; Columbiana $17,000; $531,843, Franklin $141,000; Hamilton $293,000; Jefferson $13,200; Lawrence $3,500; Lorain $6,990; Lucas $124,000; Mahoning, $54,000; Marion $6,400; Montgomery $77,000; Scioto $10,200; City of Springfield, $11,000; Stark $37,000; Summit $98,000; Trumbull $73,500; and City of Zanesville $7,700.

THE DAY IN SPORTS

BY PAT ROBINSON
International News Service
Sports Writer

WITH ALL due respect to the glories of the past, the writer ventures to say that the old heroes of the diamond never saw the day they could surpass the feats of the boys now playing ball.

It seems to be a grand old American custom to glorify—even deify—legendary heroes at the expense of our present crop. There are people who would denounce anyone who had the temerity to suggest that George Washington ever drank anything stronger than tea or that he cussed the hired hands, although authentic records assure us he did both.

So, too, we are told that our current crop of ball stars never can compare with the old timers. Matty, Bender, Overall, Waddell, Combs, Joss and others of the pitching fraternity are supposed to have been far beyond the best we have today.

This is bunk, pure unadulterated bunk!

I REMEMBER Eddie Plank, for instance. A great pitcher, of course, but ask Connie Mack if Plank was half the pitcher Lefty Grove is today. And what other old timers had anything on Bill Hubban of the Cardinals or Lefty Hubbell of the Cubs?

Old timers love to cite Babe Ruth's record of pitching 29 scoreless innings in a world series, but Babe himself will tell you he wasn't much of a pitcher and certainly never one to compare with many of our current crop. His curve was a joke, he had no change of pace and all he did was buzz a fast one by their ears. That's the tip-off on the kind of hitters they were.

OLD TIMERS will talk you blue in the face about Matty and Three-fingered Brown. I'll admit they were great, but remember they pitched with a dead ball which was kept in use even when scuffed and they could do it if they felt so inclined. Imagine what Hubbell, or Grove, could do today with such a ball!

I recall Matty's pitching as if it were yesterday and he had nothing, for instance, that Hal Schumacher of the Giants hasn't got today. John McGraw has said he wouldn't believe there was another Matty even if he saw one and that's exactly the attitude of all the old timers.

But let me assure you Matty was neither more educated nor more intelligent than Schumacher. He was no faster and he had no more stuff. Give Hal a few more years and we probably will be telling our grandchildren the same line of hokey the old timers are now telling us.

There was one great exception to the old timers—the late Miller Huggins, manager of the Yanks. Huggins admitted the current stars were just as good as any in the past and he often remarked that he never saw as great a fielding infielder as Leo Durocher, now of the Cardinals.

As for the hitters—the old timers had good ones, surely. But were they any better than Klein, Simmons, Ruth, Gehrig and Foxx are today?

You know the answer.

CALKINS CHICKS BOW IN DEFEAT IN CLOSE DUEL

Mental Errors Fatal To Victims; Third Round To Start Monday

Defeating the Calkins Chicks, 3-2, in a thrilling battle at Centennial park field yesterday, the Salem Hardware team today was in possession of the championship crown in the second round of the city's Class A softball league.

Second Round Ends
The contest marked the close of the second round of the city's softball schedule with the third round being slated to get under way at the park diamond next Monday evening.

The schedule for the next round will be announced in Friday's News and again will involve nine teams, the number competing for the crown in the race just completed.

The Chicks contrived in every manner possible to help the Hardware attain the victory yesterday but it was the wide awake play of the new champs, enabling them to take advantage of the breaks manufactured for them by the losers, that resulted in the victory.

Calkins Throw Away Win

The Calkins combine, by poor base-running five of its players were thrown out on bases at various points of the game—and other mental misplays, tossed away a chance after chance to pile up a decisive margin of runs and come through with the game.

The Chicks opened the scoring in the first half of the second, Mattie cracking out a single into right center then scored on a double by Clarence Sidingier.

The Hardware, however, came back strong in its half of the inning to take a one-run edge when Miller doubled to right and scored on a double to left by John Sanders. Sanders crossed the plate on McConnell's bingle.

A single by C. Sidingier who scored on Kaercher's double pulled the Chicks to a 2-2 tie in the fifth.

McConnell's Run Wins
McConnell, first man up for the Hardware in the seventh, doubled then went to third on a single by Frimm. Greenisen walked, filling the sacks with none gone. Arnold Seeds fled to Mattie and Mike Sattick rolled an easy bounder to French who tried for a double play which failed, McConnell scoring.

Especially brilliant was the play of Sattick behind the bat for the Hardware while Francis Simonda, Chick catcher, also played well. It was Sattick's headwork that pulled the Hardware out of several bad spots.

George McFeely, on the mound for the Chicks, was touched for 12 hits while McConnell held the losers to seven. C. Sidingier had a perfect day at bat with three hits in as many times up.

QUARTER FINALS SLATED IN OHIO WOMEN'S EVENT

Wide Open Fight Looms In State Tournament At Akron Course

AKRON, July 12.—Four hand picked golf matches among women players of the state could be no more equal or interesting than the four listed today for the quarter final round for the women's championship.

Mrs. Nelson Defends Title
Mrs. Larry Nelson, Dayton, defending champion, faced Mrs. Thornton Emmens, Columbus. Franklin county champion who a few weeks ago lost the final match of the central Ohio tournament to Mrs. Nelson.

Mrs. Mont Reid, one of the low handicap players in the Cincinnati district, opposed Mrs. Hoyt Smith, a high ranking star of Akron.

Miss Mary K. Browne, Cleveland, tournament medalist and holder of the title in 1931, met a fellow townswoman, Mrs. Charles Harbaugh, rated as the most consistent player in the tournament.

Mrs. Linton Falls, Toledo, second to Miss Browne in the qualifying round and widely chosen as the woman that must be beaten for the title, tangled with Mrs. Julian Tyler, Cleveland, former holder of the state championship.

Petrolle Draws Big Crowds

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, July 13.—Amidst the wailing and moaning heard along Cautiflowers alley these days over the shortage of big money in the fight racket these past months, stands Billy Petrolle, who has proven that crowd pleaser still can draw the crowds and the dough.

The "Fargo Express" has lured some $233,000 through the turnstiles in his last four appearances here despite the fact that money was supposed to be "tight" and that the days of big gates were over.

An even $80,000 was taken in at the gate last winter when Petrolle fought Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight championship, the high mark of his recent invasion.

The following table emphasizes Petrolle's box office appeal but does not include the receipts of his match with Bep Van Klaveren which is likely to draw another $35,000.

Billy Townsend	$42,000
Edie Ran	46,000
Bat Batallino	65,000
Tony Canzoneri	80,000

'Sign from Heaven' Convinces Parson

(By Associated Press)
ANDERSON, S. C., July 13.—It took a "sign from heaven" to convince a Negro preacher he should plow up his cotton in accordance with the government acreage reduction campaign.
R. W. Hamilton, Clemson college extension worker, said the parson, who operates a small farm in addition to preaching, declined to destroy his cotton because "it would be a sin to plow it up after it had started growing."

"A few days later," Hamilton said, "the parson sent word he was ready to sign up. The committee went out and soon discovered why the sudden change of mind."
"Lightning had struck in the middle of the parson's prized cotton patch, killing a large area of his best stand."

NO REFERENDUM ON MOSIER LAW

State Tribunal Acts On Repeal Issue By 6 to 1 Vote

petitioned for the referendum. The court held that Myers erred in placing both bills in the same petition.

In acting on the proposed referendum, the supreme court took occasion to hold that signers of initiative petitions need not designate their precincts or townships. This function, the court decided, may be handled by the petition circulators.

Follow Bricker's Ruling
A similar opinion was given recently by Attorney General John W. Bricker. A reversal would have invalidated many signatures on petitions such as those proposing a constitutional amendment to permit reorganization of county governments.

Approval of the Mosier law brought quick response from McNaught, who said he would call the emergency committee meeting at once with a view to carrying the issue to Washington.

"We're not licked yet," said the league chief who helped his organization circulate the referendum petition and later handed it to the secretary of state with some 300,000 signatures. It was "the biggest petition ever filed in Ohio," McNaught said.

But the supreme court upheld the contention of the Ohio repeal council that the law was not subject to referendum, since it represented a step in the state's method of conducting a proposed federal amendment. The lone dissenting judge was Edward S. Matthews.

By its decision, the court prevented an indefinite delay in the state's vote on the 18th amendment. The dry forces wanted the ballot on the Mosier act itself because they objected to the method of selecting convention delegates, holding they should be chosen from senatorial districts instead of from the state at large. The law calls for election of 52 delegates, pledged for or against repeal or neutral.

Emergency Measures
Judge Howard L. Bevis took no part in the decision on the highway patrol and motor vehicles transfer bills. He explained that as finance director he aided Governor White in the dispute with Secretary Myers. Carrying emergency clauses, both bills became effective immediately with yesterday's decision.

The supreme court upheld the validity of an emergency bill, passed by the legislature permitting public libraries and township park boards to share in the intangible tax receipts. The city of Cleveland had contended the new method of distribution was unconstitutional.

In a case from Knox county, the high court ruled that persons who sold a collection purporting to be Jamaica ginger may be sued for damages by purchasers. The decision resulted from suits filed by H. G. Ling and R. R. Bennington, both of Mt. Vernon, against Thomas E. Trauger, a druggist.

Reversing the lower courts of Lucas county, the supreme court held that uninvested trust funds on deposit in a bank ordered liquidated are not preferred claims against assets of the banks. The decision was given in a suit arising from liquidation of the Ohio Savings Bank and Trust company of Toledo.

2 Die In Traffic

DAYTON, O., July 13.—Automobile accidents cost the lives of two persons and injuries to five others here last night.

Mrs. Zelma Richardson, 35, was killed when a truck driven by Joseph Rawlings of River Rouge, Mich., collided with her automobile. The five injured were occupants of her car. Jacob Rutenberg, 73, a retired cigar dealer, walked into the side of the car of Webster Turvene and was injured fatally.
